

A photograph of several teenagers lying on a white bedsheet. Their legs are visible, wearing various styles of socks: some are bare, some are light green, some are white with orange stripes, and one pair is red and white striped. One person is holding a smartphone. Overlaid on the image are three checklist items, each with a checkbox containing an orange checkmark.

Most teens who have used prescription medication not prescribed to them got it from family or friends. Don't put your friends in danger — secure your medications and keep everyone safe.
